Krab is the only listener-supported, non-commercial radio station in SEATTLE, WASH. Help support us by becoming a member and this rag can be delivered hot off the presses by little dogs each month. We depend on you. Turn this page already and prepare to be astounded.

A Candidate By Any Other Name Would Still Smell Like Sewage

Journalist I.F. Stone said it: "All governments are run by liars." And with that, we announce that KRAB has scheduled pre-primary election coverage of the five Seattle City Council races up for grubbing this fall.

The primary of Tuesday, September 18, and your radio station is setting up three 1-hour slots the week previous, in which we'll do our best to get behind the 27 candidates' brochures, bus signs and TV images - and try to make some sense of the manipulations that are the political process. The programs will air Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday (Sept. 10, 11, and 12), from 9:30 p.m. to 10:30.

Each candidate will be given the questionnaire which is reprinted here for your benefit. The information their responses provide will be augmented by further investigations, a chance for some face-to-face debate between candidates, and a measure of KRAB's renowned political savvy. Together, we hope this will provide something that will be interesting, if not actually helpful.

Public Affairs Director

New Building Update

At long last, public access radio in Seattle will have a permanent broadcast and production facility. The Seattle City Council has approved the sale of the old Wilner's Department Store on 23rd and Jackson to the Jack Straw Memorial Foundation. By the time you are reading this Guide, Mayor Royer will have signed the papers and we will be cleaning out the building for renovation construction. We hope to be broadcasting from the new site in late fall and totally moved by our 17th anniversary, December 2, 1979. The working drawings for the building are being completed by Gerald H. Kumata and Associates, Architects. The facilities will include:

Two small studios
One large music studio
Control room
Two production rooms
Staff and volunteer offices & lounge
Record library & tape archives
And lots of storage

Correction:

Our sincere apologies to Michael Kelly who inadvertently got listed in the June-July Program Guide as Michael Green. Thank you, Michael, for the two speakers for the new KRAB facility.
